Our well-trained and experienced staff will review your current forms and methods of distribution for potential improved efficiencies. After careful analysis, recommendations are made to help streamline your print operations and result in real savings.

Add Inventory Management

This process is the core of our Forms Management Service. IDS insures that production takes place in a timely manner, products are combined to achieve the lowest cost and unproductive items are continually monitored and removed. Improved efficiency and lower costs—these same goals apply across your product line, from forms to collateral materials and ad specialties.

- Product details include picture of item for easy identification.

Plus Warehousing...

Your inventory is maintained and monitored in an organized warehouse where routine physical inventories are taken to insure accuracy. Since only fixed quantities per carton or package are accepted into your inventory, little room is left for error.

...Distribution and Shipping

Requests for distribution are processed daily for shipment within 24 hours. Tracking information for the most popular shipping providers is included so you can conveniently monitor products that have been shipped.

Back It Up With Meaningful Reports

Know when your distribution requests have been fulfilled. Track the usage trends for your cost-centers, departments or the company as a whole. IDS provides the accurate and timely information you need to make informed decisions about the effectiveness of your items.

- Reports use parameters to retrieve only the information you need.

Include the Power of the Internet

Why wait for the information you need? Your cost-center can access the internet to place orders, check delivery information and research availability on your schedule, 24 hours a day, any day of the week. Use our online technology to organize they way your company does business. When a decision is made, shipping is informed immediately, a packing list is created and is waiting for fulfillment, and billing receives a copy for processing.

Problem Solved, Now Log On

Using a password protected entry; you will be routed to your product catalog.

- Logging on will take you directly to your Product Catalog.

Place Your Order

When placing an order, simply follow the links from quantity entry and shipping information to check-out. When asked to print a copy of your order, an e-mail confirmation is also sent to your purchasing department, account representative and customer service representative at IDS. Just another way that our Inte/c® program brings everything together to help you succeed.

- Get the details on any order quickly anytime you need it.

Timely, Useful Reporting

Since third-party service providers maintain most Forms Management Programs, you are forced to wait for end of month reports before you can make educated decisions. With Inte/c®, you can always retrieve present stock levels, release history, items in production, current versions available, monthly usage figures, value of present inventory and much more. IDS provides the reports you need to make important daily business decisions.

- Remain up to date with reports that use current information.

Customize Your Solution

Customized views can be created for different types of users. Your central purchasing agent can look at the entire company as one entity, while a department or cost-center can be limited to viewing only specific products and inventory data. Choose whether or not to include prices, require an authorization to approve shipments or limit release quantity permission. You make the rules; we will provide the solution.

Revolutionize

how you do business with IDS's advanced

Inte/c™ Internet Program!

Executive Summary:

Even though a complete list of benefits for your company would be impossible given the highly individualized nature of the Inte/c™ solution; several things can be said of any Inte/c™ development.

More Control

It is not just difficult but impossible to gain a comprehensive view of a company's print expenditure without diligent management of all print and distribution processes. Relying on the professionals at IDS® to constantly evaluate the effectiveness of printed materials and obtaining economy of scale in producing them is the start of getting real control over this necessary expense. Add to this the convenience of professionally managed offsite warehousing and distribution hubs and the analyzing of your distribution expenses and you can realize complete control over costs as well as efficiency. Inte/c™ extends the overview of your account to a central purchaser in your company. You will no longer have to wait for answers to pressing questions about current inventory, costs or budgeting. All information available on-line is active from the database.

Fewer Errors

With illustrations of your printed products available on-line, errors in ordering can be all but eliminated. Inspecting the address or other information on current inventory can also be done on-line to eliminate confusion and effectively filter obsolete inventory.

Better Branding

It's not necessary to remind you of the investment your company has made in the logo, color palette, typography, and graphics of your printed materials all in the effort to insure company recognition is ingrained in your clientele. With centralized management of your printing the world will only see one expression of your brand. Consistency of brand and acceptance by all departments and cost centers can be guaranteed.

Better Bottom Line

All of the benefits listed here would certainly be worth whatever fees were incurred. However, our experience has shown that even after fees are added to the equation the end cost to you our client is a substantial savings over current expenditure. Using in-house staff to find the savings that we uncover and manage your inventory counts to the lowest effective levels can be done. But, the cost of retaining a staff with those credentials would be unsustainable.

Challenge us to find real savings for your company while adding the control that you desire. Use your staff for better things than following bids with uncooperative vendors in an attempt to lower the price of your products. This action usually results in a higher overall cost.
